PROJECTS

Sclera Recognition

- A new method for bio metric authentication system was developed in which the users were authenticated on the basis of their Sclera.

Sentiment Analysis to gauge the sentiments of tweets posted on Twitter

- The Naive Bayes classifier was used to predict the sentiments of tweets pulled from Twitter.

Instagram Bot for increasing Instagram followers

- A Python script was written to automate the task of visiting specific hashtags on Instagram to like, comment and follow the posts of the users.

Machine Learning for Disaster

- A Random Forest classifier was trained to predict the chances of survival of a traveler on the infamous titanic ship.

Malicious URL Detection

- The URL is analyzed for the presence of multiple features that indicate whether the URL is safe or malicious. Decision Tree classifier is used for making predictions.

Image Classifier

- Used a Convolutional Neural Network to classify the animal in the image as a dog or a cat.

Twitter Data Mining for Targeted Marketing

- Mined data from Twitter to classify the users based on their locations, engagement and preferences to target them through marketing campaigns.

Web Security using Machine Learning

- Built a web crawler that crawls any website to identify potentially malicious links.

Enhanced CCTV monitoring using Deep Learning

- Used the YOLOv3 object detection API to detect certain pre-trained objects as well custom trained objects in a live CCTV feed to further develop a system that notifies the admin if any threatening objects are detected in the live feed.
